

Group to give away free prom dresses

Staff Report

PRESTONSBURG — The Fairy God Foundation will host an open house to distribute free prom dresses on Saturday, April 19 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg.

All students who are unable to purchase a prom dress are welcome to attend.

“We are excited about the opportunity to help students in the Floyd County area for the first time and are greatly appreciative of the Mountain Arts Center for hosting this event,” said Stephen M. Wayne, executive director of the Fairy God Foundation.

The Foundation is part of DonateMyDress.org

[www.donatemydress.org], a national campaign to encourage formal dress donations.

Now in its fourth year, The Fairy God Foundation is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, headquartered in London. The group is dedicated to providing free prom dresses and accompaniments to disadvantaged high school students across southeastern Kentucky.

Last year, the Foundation helped over 80 students attend proms.

For more information about the Floyd County visit, please call Sandy Howell at (606) 587-3065 or e-mail her at [showell@fairygodfoundation.org].